E., re-entering with Tearle, who is in evening dress. Tearle. Higgins, you are a shameless flatterer. If you had met me on the street, I don't believe you would have known me from Adam. You think you recognized me; but then you expected me, you see. Well, let that pass; but when you have the nerve to tell me that I have not changed - good heavens! Higgins, do you realize that it is fifteen years since I left New York, and...
