Service-Learning in Design and Planning: Educating at the Boundaries

By -

New Village Press, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. New.. 228 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. This collection of case studies by design educators critically explores the current practice of service-learning in architecture, landscape design, and urban planning, radically revising the standard protocol for university-initiated design and planning projects in the community. The authors lively examination of real-life community collaborations forms a pedagogical framework for educators, professionals, and students alike, offering guidelines for a generative and inclusive collaborative design process. Includes contributions by the leading practitioners of service-learning in the design professions, including Daniel Winterbottom and Michael Rios. Editors: Tom Angotti is professor of urban affairs and planning at Hunter College, City University of New York, and director of the Hunter College Center for Community Planning and Development. Cheryl Doble is an associate professor in the Department of Landscape Architecture and director of the Center for Community Design Research at SUNY ESF. Paula Horrigan is a professor in the Department of Landscape Architecture at Cornell University and for the past five years has acted as faculty chair of Cornell's Faculty Fellow-in-Service Governance Board. Advance Praise: An impressive collection on an important topic. Crossing design and planning, this...
