Reviews

Definitely one of the better publication I have got possibly read. It really is writter in basic phrases and not difficult to understand. You wont sense monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogs are for about if you request me).

B5 2010r OCLC Number: (OCoLC)709609302 Subject: City planning and redevelopment law -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 quality of life, a strategy we call building sustainable communities. Historically, LISC has invested over 9. 6 billion in communities across the country. In the Twin Cities, this has translated into over 370 million in investments, resulting in over 9, 000 affordable homes and 1. 3 million square feet of retail, community and edu-cational space. I am here today to talk about the relationship between commu-nity development activities and the Livable Communities Act. We applaud the coordination promoted by the Livable Communities Act, which has the potential to combine community-based planning with regional planning efforts. In the Twin Cities, we have seen this integration take place with a great deal of success. I would like to provide a specific example. The central corridor is a new 11-mile light rail corridor and will be the second line in the Twin Cities regional transit system, that when complete, connects the downtown of Minneapolis to the Uni-versity of Minnesota through the capital campus into downtown St. Paul. This new corridor will run through the heart of one of St. Pauls most historic African-American communities, the Rondo community. When planning began for the light rail, there was a great deal of apprehension and mistrust by residents and community leaders due to the checkered history of transportation in this particular community. Forty years ago, Interstate 94 was built on top of Rondo Avenue, cutting right through the heart of the neighborhood and displacing residents and a whole range of community institu-tions, including housing, community businesses, and services....
