In early societies all education that rises above mere imitation of elders gathers around morals, manners and theology as its culture material. The priest who guards and imparts this knowledge may acquire or develop other knowledge concerning astronomy, mathematics or history, but it is always subordinated still wet from the press, rushed wildly down the streets bellowing the latest rumors from South Africa. The immense places of amusement known as Music Halls, the Palace, Alhambra, Empire, and a score of others, with the new Hippodrome, the Crystal Palace, and the Aquarium were all devoted to khaki and the war. Night after night, the crowded audiences listened to songs and jokes intended to inflame public passions; while the biograph, and similar inventions, brought South African landscapes, marching soldiers, charging cavalry, manœuvring and firing artillery and the pictures of favorite generals before the masses with life-like reality. On the evening of Majuba day, 1900, I went to one of these places where a little play was presented in which a collection of wax works was supposed to come to life. This gave opportunity to bring the popular military heroes and the despicable enemy before the audience in a series of striking tableaux. Cheer after cheer greeted the British heroes, while Oom Paul was hissed to heart's content, and finally hustled off the stage in disgrace. Organizations to raise funds for the Absent Minded Beggar, and those he left behind him, used every means...
