Excerpt: .the case since the subject The reading and solving of Problem I by Subject G is described in Plate X. The conditions of the problem and the identity of the numerals were evidently grasped during the first five or six pauses. The numerals were not re-read and the answer was recorded during either Pause 8 or Pause 9, or during both. was able to produce the correct answer without ever looking at the numeral again. During pauses 6 and 8 the subject may have been occupied with mental computation. This suggestion is offered as a possible explanation of the fact that Pause 6 was not located on any reading material, mt was nevertheless the longest of all pauses used in connection with the reading of Problem 2 by Subject G and the process of adding the two s. 1. It does not seem probable...
